

JULY 15, 2011

Grand Splash 2011 in Montreal

Grand Splash 2011, an event to promote access to the St. Lawrence River in Montreal, took place Friday at the Old Port. Participating in this year's event were, Richard Bergeron and Marc-Andre Gadoury of Project Montreal and Riviere-des-Prairies–Pointe-aux-Trembles mayor Chantal Rouleau.

Participants for the 2011 Grand Splash jump off the Quai Jacques-Cartier into the St. Lawrence river in Old Port in Montreal on Friday, July 15, 2011. The Grand Splash is an event to promote access to the St. Lawrence river in Montreal.

Darjo Ayala/The Gazette

Participants for the 2011 Grand Splash jump off the Quai Jacques-Cartier into the St. Lawrence River in Old Port in Montreal on Friday, July 15, 2011. The Grand Splash is an event to promote access to the St. Lawrence river in Montreal.

Dario Ayala/The Gazette

Participants for the 2011 Grand Splash make splashes as they swim in the St. Lawrence River after jumping off the Quai Jacques-Cartier in Old Port in Montreal.

Projet Montreal leader Richard Bergeron (rear, right) and Projet Montreal city councillor Marc-Andre Gadoury (rear, left) swim in the St. Lawrence River after participating in the 2011 Grand Splash in Old Port in Montreal.

Dario Ayala/The Gazette

Participants for the 2011 Grand Splash play in the St. Lawrence River after jumping off the Quai Jacques-Cartier in Old Port in Montreal on Friday, July 15, 2011.

Dario Ayala/The Gazette

The Grand Splash is an event to promote access to the St. Lawrence River in Montreal.